

Australian IBD Research Priorities – Communication Material Prioritisation Survey

CCA mailing list and professional organisations

Dear [xxxx],

Opportunity for you to influence research into inflammatory bowel disease (IBD)

Crohn's & Colitis Australia (CCA) is working in collaboration with the James Lind Alliance of the UK to identify the "Top 10 research priorities of people with IBD, carers and healthcare professionals".

We recently ran a survey that asked people with IBD, carers, healthcare professionals and clinical researchers to tell us their unanswered research questions about the prevention, treatment, symptoms, diagnosis and living with IBD. You now have an opportunity to participate in a second survey seeking to find which questions are the most important to you.

The survey is open to people 16 years and over with IBD, carers and healthcare professionals. Please complete the 10 minute survey by Sunday 12 December using this link <https://www.crohnsandcolitis.com.au/ibdqc/research-priorities/>.

Your response can help us find important areas to research in order to improve the healthcare and wellbeing of Australians affected by IBD. We are interested in giving you a louder voice in research and want participation from people with different experiences and backgrounds.

The highest ranked questions will be discussed in the final priority setting workshop by people with IBD, carers and healthcare professionals who together agree the final Top 10 list of priorities. The Top 10 will be published with the aim to encourage researchers and research funders to focus on the most urgent and relevant needs of people living with IBD.

Thank you for your participation.

Professor Paul Pavli
Chair, IBD Research Priorities Steering Group

Leanne Raven
CEO, Crohn's & Colitis Australia

Member e-News, Facebook, Instagram, LinkedIn

Opportunity for you to influence research into IBD

We recently ran a survey in collaboration with the James Lind Alliance that asked you to tell us your unanswered research questions about the prevention, treatment, symptoms, diagnosis and living with IBD. You now have an opportunity to participate in a second survey seeking to find which questions are the most important to you.

The survey is open to people 16 years and over with IBD, carers and healthcare professionals. Please complete the survey by Sunday 12 December using this link

<https://www.crohnsandcolitis.com.au/ibdqc/research-priorities/>.

The highest ranked questions will be discussed in the final priority setting workshop by people with IBD, carers and healthcare professionals who together agree the final Top 10 list of priorities. The Top 10 will be published with the aim to encourage researchers and research funders to focus on the most urgent and relevant needs of people living with IBD.

Twitter

Have your say on Crohn's and colitis research. We want to hear what unanswered research questions are the most important to you. If you are 16 years and over with IBD, a carer or healthcare professional please click here to take part in our survey by Sunday 12 December.

<https://www.crohnsandcolitis.com.au/ibdqc/research-priorities/>