

Articles about or referring to the JLA

Health and Social Campaigners' News (2004). Confronting Important Uncertainties about the Effects of Treatments. Health and Social Campaigners' News 2004;5.

Chalmers I (2004). Managers should help to address important uncertainties about the effects of treatments. BAMM (British Association of Medical Managers) News June:3-4.

Chalmers I (2004). Well informed uncertainties about the effects of treatments: how should clinicians and patients respond? BMJ 328:475-6.

Partridge N, Scadding J (2004). The James Lind Alliance: patients and clinicians should jointly identify their priorities for clinical trials. Lancet 364:1923-24.

Arnold F (2005). No commercial potential? (nullus pretii). In Rawlins M, Littlejohns P, editors. Delivering Quality in the NHS 2005. Part Four: James Lind Alliance: identifying patients' and clinicians' priorities for therapeutic research. Oxford: Radcliffe Publishing:49-52.

Jobling R (2005). Therapeutic research into psoriasis: patients' perspectives, priorities and interests. In Rawlins M, Littlejohns P, editors. Delivering Quality in the NHS 2005. Part Four: James Lind Alliance: identifying patients' and clinicians' priorities for therapeutic research. Oxford: Radcliffe Publishing:53-56.

Oliver S (2005). Involving the public in health technology assessment. In Rawlins M, Littlejohns P, editors. Delivering Quality in the NHS 2005. Part Four: James Lind Alliance: identifying patients' and clinicians' priorities for therapeutic research. Oxford: Radcliffe Publishing:57-61.

Thornton H (2005). Identifying patients' and clinicians' priorities in cancer clinical trials. In Rawlins M, Littlejohns P, editors. Delivering Quality in the NHS 2005. Part Four: James Lind Alliance: identifying patients' and clinicians' priorities for therapeutic research. Oxford: Radcliffe Publishing:62-66.

Whitton M (2005). The James Lind Alliance: An important initiative in fostering good research practices in all spheres of medicine. Skin Care Campaign News 32:9.

Editorial (2005). Dealing with Uncertainty. Clinical Evidence Issue 13. London: BMJ.

Health and Social Campaigners' News (2005). Patients and researchers: tackling treatment uncertainty together. Health and Social Campaigners' News 24:16-28.

Firkins L (2006). The James Lind Alliance. The Genetic Interest Group. In Press.

Crowe S (2006). The James Lind Alliance. Patient and Public Involvement (PPI) Monitor. In Press.

Firkins L (2006). The James Lind Alliance. Long-term Medical Conditions Alliance, In Press.