

JLA Publications, March 2008-2010

Buckley B, Grant A, Tincello D, Wagg A, Firkins L. Reaching a consensus on research priorities in urinary incontinence. Nursing Times, online publication. December 2009

Buckley B, Grant A, Tincello D, Wagg A, Firkins L. Prioritising research: patients, carers and clinicians working together to identify and prioritise important clinical uncertainties in urinary incontinence. Journal of Neurourology and Urodynamics 2009 DOI: 10.1002/nau.20816

Elwyn G et al. Identifying and prioritising uncertainties: patient and clinician engagement in the identification of research questions. Journal of Evaluation in Clinical Practice. September 2009.

Buckley B, Grant A. What is the most effective management of neurogenic bladder dysfunction? BMJ 2009;338:b659

Setting priorities and reducing uncertainties for people with skin disease (SPRUSD). Article by Clare Lushey, published in Dispatches issue 50, March 2009 (Page 14).

SPRUSD: Research priority for 2009: An opportunity for members to be involved. Article by Sally Crowe, published in Dispatches issue 49, November 2008 (Page 13).

Chalmers I. Confronting therapeutic ignorance: Tackling uncertainties about the effects of treatments will help to protect patients. BMJ 2008;337:a841

Firkins L. The problem in setting research priorities: a layman's experience, BMJ 2008;337:a212

Thornton H. Patient and public involvement in clinical trials. BMJ 2008;336:903-904

Buckley B. Identifying uncertainties to prioritise research. Nursing Times 2008;104:18,38-39